Paris will be hosting the European Utility Week – EUW from the 12th to the 14th of November 2019 at Paris Expo Porte de Versailles where about 12,000 delegates are expected.

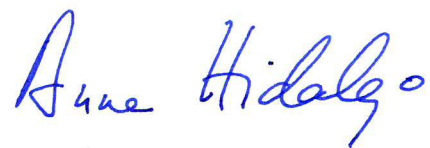

Paris is today's world leader for trade shows, conferences, and congresses. This ranking reflects our city's reputation, entrepreneurial spirit, and ability to create and innovate. Each year we welcome over 30 million visitors, who come to enjoy this unique city and its famous lifestyle.

Among other advantages, Paris boasts an unparalleled geographical location in the centre of Europe facilitating easy access, an efficient public transport network, conference venues with cutting-edge technology, and quality hospitality and accommodation facilities.

I can therefore assure you that the European Utility Week – EUW will find that our city has all the necessary infrastructures, adapted to your highest requirements, to make its Congress a success. Our Paris Convention Bureau will make every effort to ensure that this event takes place according to your expectations.

I truly hope that this Parisian edition will be both educational and enjoyable and wish you a memorable stay in our vibrant city.

Yours faithfully,
